

Reflections

Wednesday, April 15, 2020

UVA Modeling Data

The Governor of Virginia released modeling data on Monday that shows that our social distancing is working in the state. It also shows very clearly that if we give up before June 10, there will be nasty consequences to pay for releasing restrictions too soon. Toward that end he also extended his Executive Order 53 which bans gatherings of more than 10 persons until May 10.

Here's the link for all you data heads, knock yourself out:

UVA Modeling Data

<https://biocomplexity.virginia.edu/project/covid-19-pandemic-response>

Hospitality Staff

Amenie and her staff have started their own version of reflections called: "Daily Dustup." First issue is out today and it looks great...hmmm better than this.

Masterclass

What do you get when you have six people trying to learn how to run a Zoom Webinar?

See you Thursday.

Scott